MRS. FREEMAN D. LEWIS,
before her marriage on Saturday, Miss Alice Alline Regenhardt.

Miss Regenhardt Is Bride of F. D. Lewis

Among the first of the early autumn weddings was that of Miss Alice Alline Regenhardt and Freeman D. Lewis which took place Saturday afternoon at Grace Methodist Church. Rev. P. A. Kasey, pastor and Rev. R. C. Holliday, district superintendent of Methodist Churches, officiated at the 4 o'clock candlelight nuptials before which "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee," were sung by Louis Clark who also rendered "The Lord's Prayer" during the service. Miss Mary Stevenson of Ferguson was at the organ, and Miss Mary Louise Deneke of this city lighted the candles. A reception was held afterwards at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted R. Regenhardt, 101 South Louisiana avenue.

White satin marked the family pews along the aisle down which two young women walked in front of the bride and her father to the altar appointed with ferns and white asters. They were a maid of honor, Miss Leta Lewis, sister of the bridegroom, and bridesmaid, Miss Anne Limbaugh of Aurora, Ill. Slipper satin fashioned their gowns made identically with fitted bodices; cap sleeves which were completed with matching opera length gauntlets, and sweetheart necklines finished at the back with a tiny upright cuff. Triple pleats at either side accented the front of the very full skirts and, according to the tones of their dresses, ice green for Miss Lewis and gold for Miss Limbaugh, were the halo hats they wore. Their flowers, yellow daisy chrysanthemums which Miss Lewis carried and bronze ones complementing Miss Limbaugh's gown, were arranged with showers of satin.

The Something Old.

Only daughter of the Regenhardts, the bride was given by her father in marriage. Lending a note of "something old," to the antique white slipper gown she wore was a lace handkerchief that, 59 years ago, was carried by her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. J. T. McNeely. Lace ruffling fringed the long tapered sleeves of the moulded bodice and defined a deep flange collar made on the southern belle fashion and set onto a yoke of nylon net. The skirt was full and accented by an overdrape, a modified panier lengthening into a long train bordered entirely with the lace motif. Her bridal veil of illusion fell from a white satin halo ornamented with a lace circlette and seed pearls and she carried a shower of white gardenias and button chrysanthemums.

Francis F. Lewis attended his brother as best man and other brothers, Frank Lewis and Billy Lewis, were ushers. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis of Cape Rock Drive. Groomsman was the bride's cousin, Gene Tuschoff of Old Aplpeton, and her younger brother, Don Regenhardt, served with the group of ushers.

At the Regenhardt home white asters, gladioli and chrysanthemums were the appointments for the reception, held also in candlelight. Serving there were Mrs. Truman Howard, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Frank Lewis, at punchbowls, and Mrs. Wm. H. Abram, the bride's cousin of Ferguson who served the cake. Assisting were Miss Barbara Smoot, Mrs. Carroll Statler, Miss Julia Hutters, Miss Janice Hutters and Miss Melva Rose Schrader. Miss Deneke had charge of the guest book.

After a two-week honeymoon to be spent in the East, the newlyweds will make their home at 101a South Boulevard, the bridegroom being a business associate in this city with his father and brothers.
